

First things to do if/when you find you are pregnant

As indicated in the main safety manual, you must inform both your supervisor and the person or persons in charge of the laboratories where you work, so that appropriate risk assessments can be made together with adjustments to the way you work, if necessary.

Some broad guidelines are available on the SEPS website at:

<http://www.gla.ac.uk/services/seps/az/>

and look for pregnancy or new and expectant mothers.