Outline and aims

- What does housing have to do with social justice and social injustice?
- What do we mean by social justice anyway?
- How is housing (disadvantage) related to social injustice?
- How can we tell if housing policy is advancing social justice?
- Scottish focus
- Some concluding thoughts

Summary of argument

- Housing is implicated in key inequalities that constitute or contribute to social injustice
- To tackle social injustice requires that housing policy:
 - addresses the sources of injustice
 - defines ‘just principles’ for distribution
 - specifies who is responsible
 - ensures resources are provided
- And that other policies support the same aims
- Policy endorses social justice – can it deliver?
- Thanks to Nick Bailey and Jon Pickering; ENHR

Are housing inequalities unjust?

- Housing 'inequalities':
 - unfair, issue for policy concern
OR
 - mark of free society; fair reward for effort; result of free choice, geography, designers' or users' taste ?
- Unjust or just different? Is housing implicated? eg as cause or remedy
- Associations between poor housing/homelessness &
 - Certain income groups
 - Certain tenures
 - Certain types of neighbourhood/small area
 - Certain household types
 - Certain regions
 - Certain age groups
 - Certain ethnic origins
 - Certain ability/disability

Housing deprivation and multiple deprivation

(overcrowding/no central heating[census2001] & SIMD2003)

What do we mean by social justice?

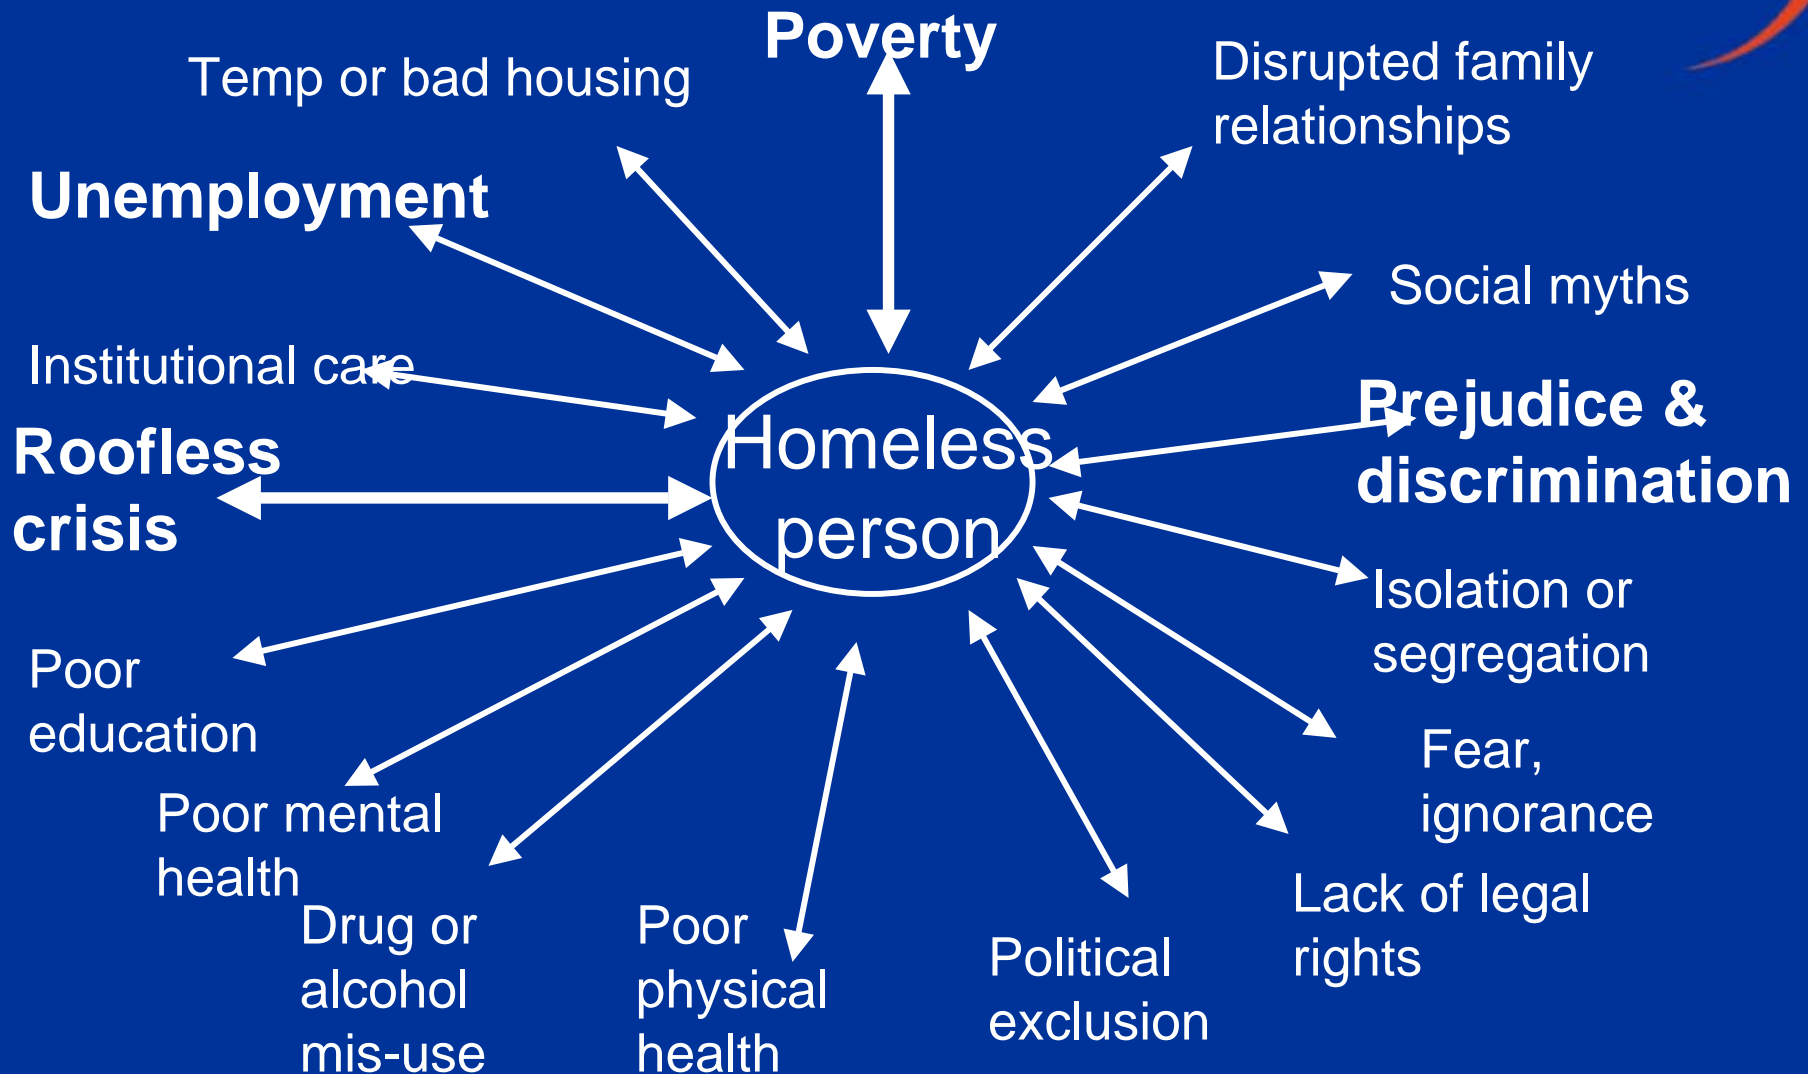

- No agreed definition or conceptualisation
- Dominant view of 'justice as fairness'
- Social justice provides a rationale for 'how the good and bad things in life should be distributed among the members of a human society' (Miller, 1999): who gets what, when,.. and where?
- What rationale can be suggested? Agreed?
- Social justice and other values

What do we mean by social injustice – in the case of housing?

- Housing has key role in society / life chances
- Unfair distributions of (good and) bad housing conditions/amenities/homelessness etc
- Housing disadvantage – unfair if not fault of individual: 'carry over' of eg poverty, domestic violence → poor housing & homelessness
- Also poor housing & homelessness → contributory factor in other disadvantages: education, employment, (ill)health & wellbeing, disability, race

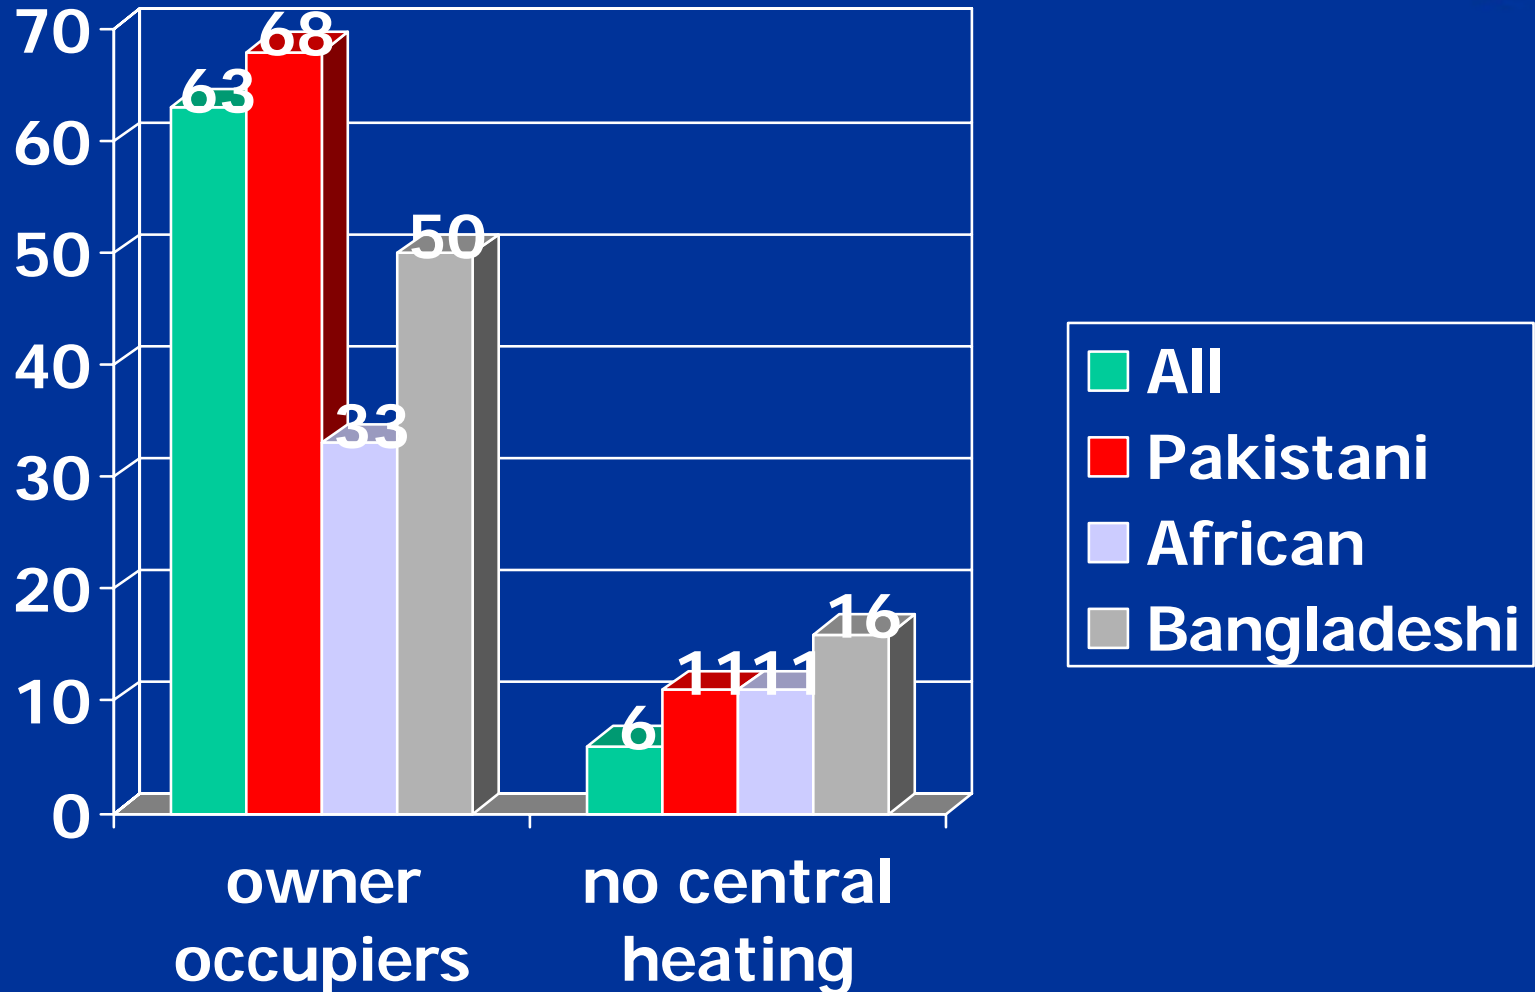

The causes and consequences of homelessness

What are the sources of social/housing injustice?

- Poverty and other material need that 'carries over' to compound disadvantage
- ALSO
- Lack of status and respect; powerlessness arising from 'difference' that compounds disadvantage – gender, 'race', disability
- Together can exert powerful effect: eg disability, low income and housing disadvantage

Some housing characteristics by selected ethnic origin (Census 2001, %)

So how do we achieve fairness? 'Just' principles?

Favoured in public policy are:

- Need
- Equality – of what?
 - Material conditions: sufficient equality
 - Status: disability, 'race', gender, homelessness
 - Rules and procedures: universal application
 - Need to recognise difference

Unjust principles?

- Discrimination on grounds of disability, gender, ethnic origin, sexuality, age/youth, other non-relevant characteristic eg stigma of homelessness and neighbourhood deprivation
- Nepotism
- Market 'principle': 2 views
 - Just desert – reward for effort & qualifications? + efficient and sensitive to individual preferences
 - Unfair – perverse, outcome of chance and luck, source of exploitation and unfair power

Summary so far

- Social justice has to do with who gets what, when, where and how: housing is implicated
- Social injustice in housing has two main origins – poverty and 'difference'
- Just principles: need and equality; place for market more problematic
- Since housing disadvantage can be result of or cause of injustice, housing policy will contribute most to social justice alongside other policies on disadvantage

Housing policy: summary of criteria for judging it as 'just'

- It addresses the sources of injustice
- It defines 'just principles' for distribution
- It specifies who is responsible
- It ensures resources are provided: it goes beyond rhetoric

Scottish policy:

1. tackling the sources of injustice?

- Poverty & deprivation:
 - supply: construction & affordability, land;
 - renewal – stock transfer, investment, standards, HITF; Local Housing Strategies;
 - homelessness TF – 2001 and 2003 Acts, RSI etc
- Is it enough?
- Powerlessness & low status: 'difference':
 - Homelessness rights; women's refuges;
 - Tenant participation; housing management & Best value; choice
 - 'Supporting People'
 - Anti-social behaviour – balancing rights
- Is it enough?

2. Just principles?

- Need:
 - Homelessness laws & policy
 - Standards
 - Affordable housing
- Equality:
 - The Equalities agenda: race, disability, gender ...
 - Material conditions: sufficient equality
 - Rules and procedures: compatible with choice?
- The role of the market?
 - HMO regulation; affordable housing; RTB; renewal

3. Who is responsible?

- Multi-level governance
 - 2 key acts: 1999 Scotland Act and 2001 Housing Act
- Less clear: roles of citizens, consumers & markets
- Complexity: homelessness as an example

Tackling homelessness: UK responses

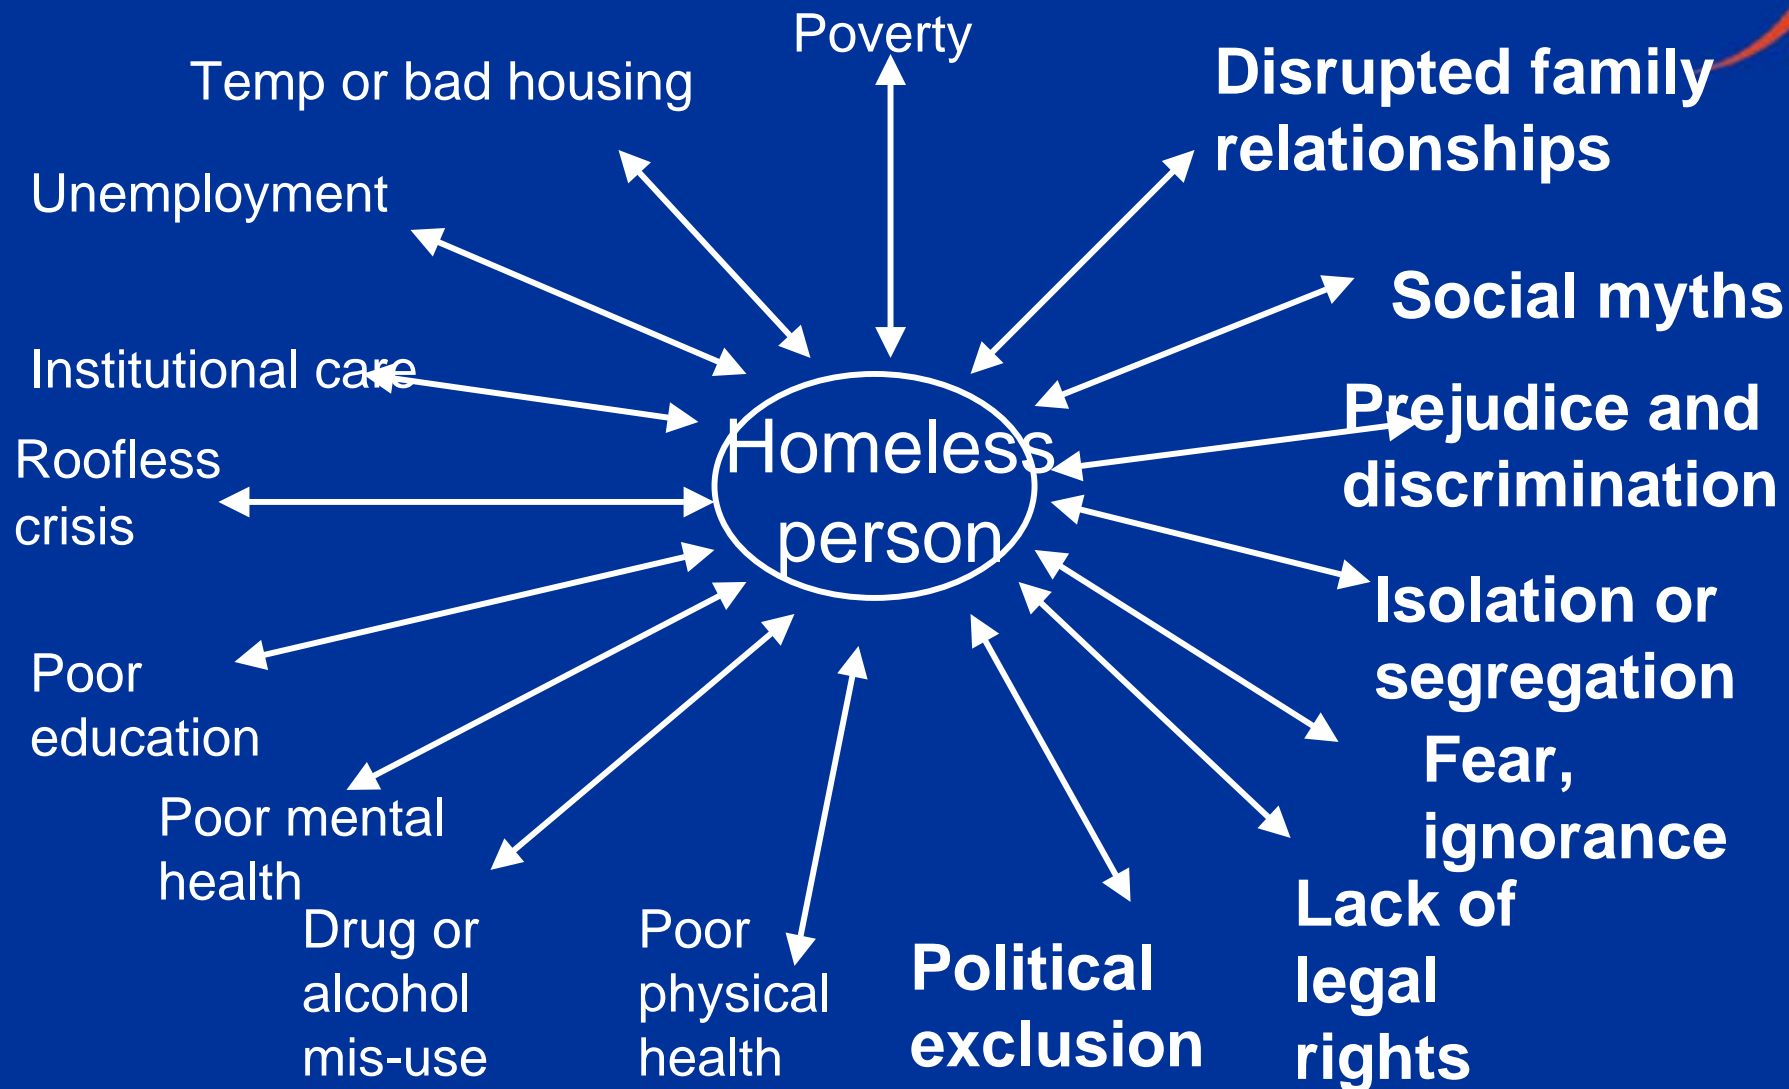

Tackling homelessness: Scottish Executive responses

Tackling homelessness: local authority responses

Tackling homelessness: responses required from all of us

Tackling homelessness: UK responses

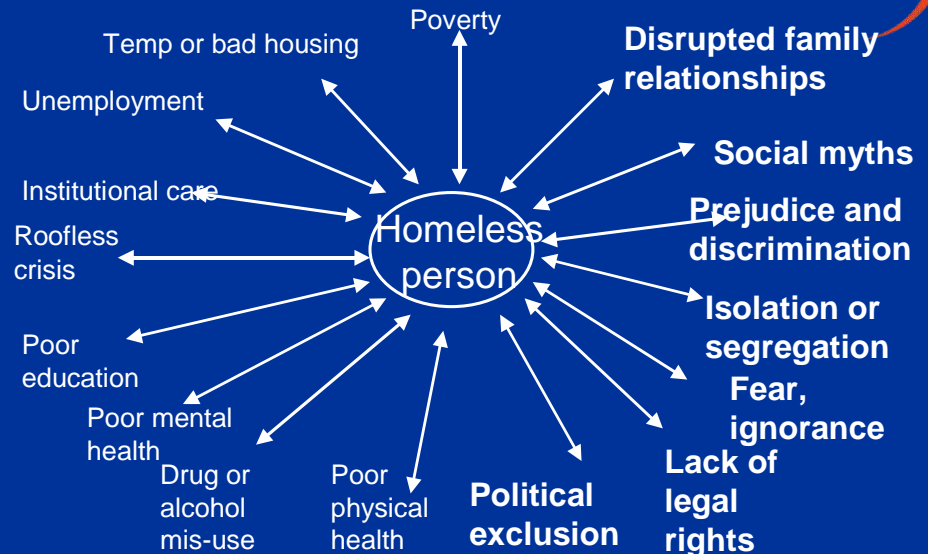

Tackling homelessness: Scottish Executive responses

Tackling homelessness: local authority responses

Tackling homelessness: responses required from all of us

4. Adequate resources?

- Hard to tell for two reasons:
 - Data difficulties
 - What is sufficient?
- Homelessness example:
 - £127 million over the three years 2003/4 to 2005/2006, inc. RSI, hostels replacement, B&B and other local authority initiatives; plus affordable housing initiatives etc
 - Impact?

In conclusion

- Challenge in agreeing what social justice means, but clarity is essential to checking progress
- Suggested two key sources of social injustice:
 - Poverty and 'difference'
- Suggested two key principles for deciding who gets what where and when
 - Need and equality – plus 3rd – civilising the market ?
- Evidence policy is pushing in right directions
- Limits of public policy:
 - Other values also favoured – tensions
 - Roles for others
